What's new: We provide an update on Winway's business outlook.

What's the impact: Marked revenue upside, but a more conservative gross margin outlook. We raise our 3Q26 revenue forecast by 9.3% to TWD5.0bn (+177.8% YoY) to reflect the stronger-than-expected execution of capacity expansion at Renwu Phase 1. Management guided for flat QoQ revenue in 4Q26, due to: 1) seasonality; 2) existing capacity being nearly fully utilised, with additional capacity scheduled to come online in 1H27; and 3) potential revenue recognition delays into 1H27 to accommodate customers' schedules. On profitability, we lower our 3Q26E gross margin by 1.8pp, as we expect higher revenue contribution from probe cards and incremental depreciation from the new plant to dilute margins. Overall, for 2026E and 2027E, we raise our revenue by 3.2% and 0.9%, while lowering our gross margin by 1.2pp and 1.7pp, respectively.

Probe card share concerns appear overdone. In response to concerns over probe card order losses, we believe the expanding TAM will attract competitors; the key differentiator is whether suppliers can scale capacity to meet customers' demands. Winway does not expect its probe card share at its largest customer to decline and remains confident in maintaining its market-leading position. Its Micro-Electro-Mechanical Systems (MEMS) probe card supply agreement with Technoprobe (TPRO IM, Not Rated) remains in place, which should support its technology competitiveness.

Socket capacity expansion remains on track. Winway doubled its socket capacity YoY in 2026 and remains on track to reach monthly pogo-pin capacity of 14m units by 1H27, per management. We estimate monthly capacity to grow further to 16-18m units by end-2027. Management's long-term target is to raise its pogo-pin self-sufficiency ratio to 50-60%, which should support gross margin expansion through greater vertical integration.

What we recommend: We slightly raise revenue top-line but lower our 2026-28E EPS by 1-5% to factor in conservative gross margin assumptions. We reaffirm our Buy (1) call, with 12M TP of TWD10,000, based on a PER of 50x, applied to our 2027E forward EPS. Our 2026-28E EPS CAGR of 100% makes our target PER undemanding, given that the resulting PEG ratio is 0.5x. Key downside risks: intensifying competition.

How we differ: Our revised 2026-27E EPS are now roughly in line with consensus, reflecting a more prudent gross margin. While market noise persists, we see no structural threat to Winway's leading position in sockets and probe cards.
