Today's economic developments and market movements.

Morning Report PDF (PDF 253KB)

Key themes:

- Markets are still left with no clear answers regarding the future of the US-Israel led conflict against Iran. Intraday price action remains volatile, sensitive to the tone of headlines.
- While the IEA confirmed its largest-ever release of 400mn barrels of oil from the strategic reserve was seen as a positive, the fact that it “would take place over a timeframe that is appropriate to the national circumstances of each member country” suggests the pace is unlikely to be urgent.
- The US’ February CPI was spot-on expectations, providing little offset to upside inflation risks from with the conflict. Markets pushed back the next expected FOMC rate cut from September to December, seeing Treasury yields shoot higher.
- While most currencies weakened, the Aussie dollar was one of the few to lift against the USD, up to its highest level in around three years with ongoing support from relative policy/yield differentials.
