ITEM DEFINITIONS AND METHODOLOGY

General:

All aggregates are bottom-up aggregates calculated from analysts' consensus forecasts unless otherwise noted. Bottom-up aggregates are weighted calculations using the I/B/E/S data from Refinitiv share class monitored or the official index weight of the index-provider. Top-down forecasts are compilations of strategists' estimates. I/B/E/S universe calculations are based on all companies within a given market monitored by Refinitiv.

Benchmark index calculations, including those for official local market indices, the S&P 500 Index, and the FTSE World Equity Indices are calculated using official index constituents and weightings. All index composites are representative of current index constituents. Index constituents and weightings are updated monthly during options expiration (the Thursday before the third Friday of every month) for every index except the S&P 500, the constituents of which are current as of the date of calculation.

PEIGBY refers to the Price Earnings Inverse Government Bond Yield ratio, which measures equity valuation with respect to the inverse-yield on long-term government bonds (now known as the 'Fed' model). All PEIGBY ratios are I/B/E/S universe-specific except for the US ratio, where it is based on the S&P 500 Index.

Methodology:

For US and selected Canadian aggregates, calendar-year aggregation is performed using the sum of four quarters' estimates and a quarterly pro-rata is applied to non-December year end companies' quarterly EPS estimates. Outside of the US and Canada, all company-level data are calendarized prior to aggregation using the Compustat method of calendarization. Aggregation is performed using the annual consensus EPS estimate and a May roll-back is applied to December year-end markets. Aggregates for Japan, where most companies report in March, use an August rollback and a November rollback is used for Australia and New Zealand, where the fiscal year-end for most companies is in June.

All 12-month-forward data for ex-US markets are calculated using a pro-rata weighting to annual EPS forecasts. The weightings applied are a daily calibration out of 365 days relative to each constituent's individual fiscal year-end and the current date.

All non-surprise data, including aggregate forecast earnings, forecast growth, and forward-looking valuation calculations are weighted according to the I/B/E/S share class monitored for I/B/E/S universes or the weightings assigned to each constituent in a given index. Aggregated earnings calculations are the equivalent of net profit aggregates, as they are derived from the EPS forecasts aggregated to the net income level by the appropriate share weighting.

Earnings Aggregation:

For 12-month-forward earnings, the 12-month-forward EPS is used in place of the calendarized EPS in the formulas below.

$$\text{I/B/E/S universe EPS Aggregate} = \frac{\sum_{i=1}^n \text{shares} * \text{calendarized EPS}}{\sum_{i=1}^n \text{shares}} \quad \text{Index EPS Aggregate} = \frac{\sum_{i=1}^n \text{weight} * \text{calendarized EPS}}{\sum_{i=1}^n \text{weight} * \text{price}} * \text{IndexLevel}$$

Growth Calculations:

All growth calculations are the weighted year over year growth in earnings for the calendarized fiscal year period. The formulas below use index shares for index growth calculations.

$$\text{Calendarized Earnings Growth} = \left[\frac{\sum_{i=1}^n \text{shares} * \text{calendarized EPS}}{\sum_{i=1}^n \text{shares} * \text{calendarized EPS}_{t-1}} - 1 \right] * 100 \quad \text{12-month-forward Growth} = \left[\frac{\sum_{i=1}^n \text{shares} * 12\text{M EPS}}{\sum_{i=1}^n \text{shares} * 12\text{M Trailing EPS}} - 1 \right] * 100$$

Valuation:

All valuation calculations are the weighted-average price-earnings ratio for the fiscal period in question. The formulas below use index shares for index P/E calculations.

$$\text{Calendarized P/E Aggregate} = \frac{\sum_{i=1}^n \text{shares} * \text{price}}{\sum_{i=1}^n \text{shares} * \text{calendarized EPS}} \quad \text{12-month-forward P/E} = \frac{\sum_{i=1}^n \text{shares} * \text{price}}{\sum_{i=1}^n \text{shares} * 12\text{M EPS}}$$

Revisions Momentum:

Unless otherwise indicated, analysts' revisions momentum is a simple aggregation of the total number of estimates raised divided by the total number of estimates lowered. Thus, any revisions ratio less than 1 indicates negative revisions momentum while a ratio greater than 1 indicates positive revisions momentum, with 1 marking parity.

STARMINE EARNINGS SURPRISE FORECAST

Looking forward at quarterly performance, we use StarMine's SmartEstimate® from LSEG to determine which companies in the S&P 500 are better poised to beat and miss earnings estimates. The SmartEstimate® is a weighted average of analyst estimates, with more weight given to more recent estimates and more accurate analysts. Our studies have shown that when the SmartEstimate® differs significantly from the consensus (I/B/E/S mean estimate), the Predicted Surprise accurately predicts the direction of earnings surprises or further revisions 70% of the time. When a significant Predicted Surprise for revenue is also present for the period, the accuracy improves to 78%.

StarMine ARM from LSEG is an analyst revisions stock ranking model, designed to predict future changes in analyst sentiment. ARM incorporates more accurate earnings estimates through the SmartEstimate prediction service. ARM region rankings scores companies by region on a scale of 1 to 100 where 100 represents the most bullish sentiment.

Over the next two weeks, 144 S&P 500 companies are expected to report earnings. Of these companies, 24 positive surprises and 9 negative surprises are expected from S&P 500 companies reporting quarterly results.
